or any other pay as you go tax plan that might be adopted the taxpayers still are required to file their 1942 returns and pay an installment of at least one fourth by March 15.

As reported by committee sources, the plan Doughton discussed would cut in half the tax bill against each individual's 1943 income, but 1942 obligations still would have to be paid in full during 1943.

Some committee men said privately the choice of a pay as you go facility appeared to have narrowed to the Doughton suggestion and a proposal by Rep. Robertson (D-Va.) that the 8 per cent normal and first bracket surtax of 13 per cent be cancelled out for small and large taxpayers alike.

The Robertson plan would cancel 1942 taxes completely for about 70 percent of the taxpayers, these being the low-income bracket persons who would be converted to pay as you go; and the higher income brackets, while having the levy lifted on the first $2,000 of their 1942 taxable income, would go ahead paying their taxes in the subsequent year as at present.

Both the Robertson and Doughton suggestions contemplate the levying of a withholding tax of around 10 or 20 percent on net taxable income, as a means of making weekly semimonthly or monthly deductions from earnings to be applied against actual taxes computed after each tax year.

The ideal time for applying a recap is when the tire is worn to the point where one thirty second of an inch of tread remains.

Debate Who Should Make Post-War Plan

B. Y. D. HAROLD OLIVER
Washington, Feb. 17. —(P)—The National Resources Planning board headed by Frederick A. Delano, President Roosevelt's uncle, found itself in the middle of a hot Roosevelt-Congress debate today as to who should do the postwar planning.

The chief executive chided Congress at a press conference yesterday for ignoring a budget recommendation of $1,400,000 for the resources board, now engaged in many postwar studies and coordinator of similar projects of other government agencies.

He described himself as a great saver of money and a watchdog of the nation's pocketbook compared with those at the capitol who would abolish national long-time planning. The latter are likely to be the spendthrifts of the country, he added.

Members of the congressional economy bloc retorted they would resist any efforts to have the $1,400,000 restored to the pending independent offices appropriations bill.

If they succeed, they will leave the planning board without funds after July 1.

The president said he was inclined to think that advance preparation might save several billion of dollars in such things as time and employment. The resources board, for example, has prepared a backlog of public works projects to provide peace time jobs for returning soldiers and munitions workers, he said.

The resources board, he said, not only has been working on projects which thousands could be put to work quickly, but also studying what disposition could be made of new communities created by war production growth.

Chairman Cannon (D-Mo.) and Rep. Dirksen (R-Ill.), of the House Appropriations committee, told newsmen that the committee's denial of funds for the resources board was based on long hearings and a feeling that congress itself should take a more direct hand in postwar planning.

Several proposals already are pending to create legislative groups either to make studies independently or in conjunction with executive agencies.

"I don't want any more superbooglegging such as we have had in the past," Dirksen said. "It is time Congress took over this job of planning."

He told the house during debate on the $2,621,104,379 independent offices bill that a survey had shown more than 150 federal units were "in the planning business" at a cost of $164,000,000. Results so far

Rep. Fulbright Raps Speech of Mrs. Luce

Washington Feb. 17 —(P)—Arkansas' Rhodes scholar congressman J. W. Fulbright began his speech making career in the House today with an accusation that Representative Clare Luce advocates "narrow imperialistic policy of grab" which "carries within the seeds of its own destruction."

The 37 year old Democrat former president of the University of Arkansas replied in sarcastic language to the opening speech of the Connecticut Republican last in which she opposed "freedom of the airways" after the way and called Vice President Wallace's idea "glo-baloney."

"Globaloney" said Fulbright is a "wonderful word which convulsed the gallery and will certainly live for many seasons in the folklore of Broadway."

"There is no denying it our honorable colleague is a wit!" he said. But he declared her argument was without "serious logic" and reduced itself to this: "That our policy must be to exclude all foreign aircraft from our skies and airports and at the same time proceed to establish air lines and airports over and in all the other countries of the world."

He quoted her remark that if this country adopts the wrong air policy "we shall have most efficiently laid the groundwork for America's certain defeat in World War number three."

"The way to avoid this calamity she implies is that we must now before this war is over begin to prepare for the next war. By adopting the version of sovereignty of the skies" Fulbright continued.

He then declared her air policy "is probably the most effective method imaginable of bringing on the world war." Fulbright proposed that the House "instead of assuming a defeatist policy with regard to war" immediately direct its foreign affairs committee to undertake a thorough study of all proposals for post-war international organizations designed to prevent war and report within 60 days Fulbright a member of that committee.

include four-story penthouses, programs costing $2.9 p rate, he said, programs costing $2.97 per rate, he said.

U. S. Purchase of Livestock Is Suggested

Washington, Feb. 17 —(P)—A suggestion for government purchase of live animals and for registration of every person who sells controlled meat as a means to combat the Black Market in meat and keep small packers in business appeared to be gaining support today in the House Small Business committee.

David Ginsburg, general counsel for the Office of Price Administration, described the plan as "worth considering" after Chairman Patman (D-Tex.) asked whether it would not prove feasible to accomplish the double objective.

The proposal was advanced yesterday by Wilbur La Rue, Jr., counsel for the National Independent Meat Packers Association, who said the industry was suffering from government action in fixing ceilings on meat products but not on the live animals.

Discussing the meat situation further before the House group, Ginsburg contended that ceiling prices were sufficiently high at the present time to allow a "fair profit to the major output" of the packing industry.

A Senate committee was told meanwhile that an OPA order freezing milk prices to farmers was "the beginning of the bust up and breakdown of OPA" and would make inevitable the rationing of milk. The testimony came from Charles B. Holman, representing the Milk Producers Federation.

Holman, testifying before a Senate agriculture subcommittee said that so far he knew "no milk strike will come out of the (milk price freezing) order."

But, he added, "farmers will lose heart" and there "will be an acceleration of the rate at which cows which should be kept for milking will go to the slaughter houses."

The order of last Saturday freezing the price of fluid milk to producers at the highest level in January, Holman asserted, will result in "a scarcity of milk."

"Rationing will be inevitable and dangerous," he testified.

He said farmers were "caught on a squeeze" with feed and labor costs rising and "can't afford to stay in business."

Senate Hits Snag in School Appropriation

Little Rock Feb. 17 —(P)—Senate efforts to rush through 18 appropriation bills for state schools and colleges struck a snag today when Sen. Willis Smith, Texarkana heretofore a staunch budget committee champion sought to cut the University of Arkansas appropriation $15000 a year.

Super War Tax on All Incomes Urged FDR

Washington Feb. 17 —(P)—President Roosevelt today urged congress to levy a special war super-tax on all net income which after payment of regular income taxes would limit single persons to $25,000 a year and married couples to $50,000.

If such taxes were levied the president wrote Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the House Ways and Means committee "I shall immediately resign." The executive order would limit salaries to $25,000 after war time salaries to $25,000 after taxes.

(This order applied only to salaries; the proposed super tax would apply to income from a source including presently tax exempt securities.)

Arkansas Marines Are Navy Casualties

Washington, Feb. 17 —(P)—The Navy announced today 58 casualties in Navy forces, including 8 dead, 38 wounded and 12 missing. This brings to 23,340 the total of Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard casualties reported to next of kin since December 7, 1941. The grand total includes 60,000 dead, 4,388 wounded and 12,342 missing. 68th casualties announced today (those listed are Navy and noncommissioned personnel unless otherwise specified):

Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS
Wide World Feature Writer
Hollywood — Dawn of the great unsliced era I am unhappy to report seems to have found Hollywood prepared to look as if all Hays' chillun got bread - knives

The canvass is not complete but first results of my galloping poll indicate that bread - knife film families far outnumber the bread-knifeless.

Walter Huston Vera Vague Ann Harding Olivia De Havilland and many others all knew definitely they were equipped and only Richard Travis the pride of Paramount confessed knifelessness — he being a new bridegroom and not yet set up for housekeeping.

Miss De Havilland who hadn't been reading the papers and didn't know that bakery - sliced bread was a war casualty was delighted to hear it. She said firmly that sops should have been taken long ago because bread was always sliced too thick and it was about time the government stepped in so there.

Anyway Hollywood can still slice bread as thin as it pleases. So I'm chagrined — because my theory based on years of observation is that there is a direct relation between thin sliced bread and wallpaper - climbing at movie cocktail parties.

Cocktail parties are rare nowadays but the hors d'oeuvre tray — with thin - sliced bread as its soul and foundation — is still with them when they happen. The tray slithers by the hapless guest whose 5 pm appetite is already whetted by a sip of martini and it darts him in the name of Emily Post to take more than one of its minute adornments.

These are usually damp wafer thin party-shaped dabs of bread buried under mounds of anonymous goo the taste of which demands two quick cocktails to obliterate same. By this time the victim is ravenous and starts slithering — he hopes inconspicuously — after the slithering tray in hopes of better luck.

In the old days he could settle on a fraction of deviled egg with some confidence but nowadays he hunts in darkness. So he draws an anchovy tidbit he thinks but it is really a string of spiny salted leather curled up coyly on a bed of glue atop a heart-shaped wafer of wet dough. He runs choking for another washer - downer and so on and on — and after a while he thinks he is Louis B. Mayer and starts handing out MGM-M contracts.

My notebook is full of such sad case - histories. Mr. X for one who got muscle bound sprinting after the non-stop tray fanatically determined to consume the equivalent of one man's diet sandwich. And Mr. A who fell flat on his face after two hours — entirely I was told from frustrated hunger and poor Mr. B who developed arms like Atlas from ceaseless reaching after trays and would have been a fine physical specimen except that his liver dissolved in the downwash. All because of thin - sliced bread!

But Hollywood is well - knived and science must wait. And another bitter thought: No matter how thin they slice it it's still alas no bologna.

selective service system and that it does set up adequate safeguards for those human rights for which we are fighting Germany, Japan and Italy.

Speculation
Former Ambassador Davies' theory that Hitler may be dead was based upon much more logic than many such speculations. It was the sort of hunch which gives pleasure to everybody.

It also was the sort of thing which definitely should not have been "broken" on the radio. Anybody who heard the entire speech was not misled. But hundreds of thousands tune in on the middle of radio programs, here part of a talk or an announcement, and get wrong ideas. That happened with Mr. Davies' speech, resulting in many calls to newspapers and radio stations and in many celebrations of the supposed death of the arch villain.

Newsprint, where everything is available at once, is the medium for such tricky matters. No newspaper headline misled readers into taking frank speculation for established fact.

Cold Comfort

Northeasterners, shivering in half-heated homes, will be coldly comforted to learn that they probably will not freeze stiff and stark in front of their hearths. Any who prefer freezing to pneumonia should take a few good stiff drinks and go outdoors, one gathers from a Metropolitan Life Insurance Company statistical report on the subject of freezing to death.

The statisticians express particular interest in the fact that before rationing fewer persons froze to death in some northeastern states than in supposedly warmer areas.

Most freezing victims have been either intoxicated or mentally deranged. Such deaths are lowest in New York and New Jersey, highest in Nevada, Montana and Wyoming. We hope the statisticians were not hinting anything about relatives' sobriety and sanity among the peoples of the various states.

The nation's traffic toll for 1942 was placed by the National Safety Council at less than 23,000 a drop of about 12,000 from 1941.

Regular tire inspection will subtract 30,000,000 man-hours from the number available for regular vehicle maintenance.

SERIAL STORY

THE TERRIBLE EYE

BY EDWIN RUTT

IN THE BAG CHAPTER XI

"FORTY thou . . ." Mr. Channing was choking. "Have you lost your mind, Clarissa? In the French Revolution they guillotined women like you!"

"I happen to know," said Mrs. Channing, a gold mine of statistics, "that you paid $42,500 for that nasty horse of yours. That Black Moonlight. But you sit here depriving your own wife of a mere . . ."

"Oh, Lord!" Mr. Channing banged the desk. "All right, Clarissa. Get the damned thing!"

"Thank you, lovey," said Mrs. Channing, with a little sigh. "I'll phone Brown, Moon & Snow's right away and have them send it out. So I can wear it at your party Saturday night. You're a lamb, lovey. And now you can get back to your old sales curves and things."

"Gr-r-r," said Mr. Channing. The door closed upon Mrs. Channing, and $40,000.

With tranquility reigning once more, Mr. Channing attempted to resume work. But his train of thought had been interrupted and it was no go. Mr. Channing, however, not one to waste time, improved the moment by being audibly sorry for himself.

"Meath," he said, leaning back in his chair, "I am a much-harassed man. Confidentially, Meath, in spite of these—ah—apertunances"—he swept a hand to indicate Wildover—"I lead a dog's life."

"Yes, sir," said Meath promptly. In addition to being a superb secretary, Meath was also a competent yes-woman.

"It's a fact," Mr. Channing said broodingly. "My existence is a sorry one. Consider, Meath! I have a wife who thinks my hard-earned money. I have a wayward and insolent daughter. I am also afflicted with a brother-in-law who lies awake nights thinking out schemes by which to cheat me."

"You poor man," said Meath. "There are times, Meath," Mr. Channing was thoroughly enjoying himself, "when for me life becomes nothing but a vista of blackness and frustration."

Meath cogitated a moment. "Mr. Channing," she said at last, "may I say something—er—personal?"

"Certainly," said Mr. Channing affably.

"Well, then," Meath said, "it is my opinion that this horse race is preying on your mind."

EVER since Bucephalus had made strictly equine sounds

THE BAG

outside the window, Meath had been wondering how to bring up the subject of the race. The reason for her interest was financial. When the contest had first been projected, Meath had strung along with her employer. And, rashly, she had entered into a transaction with one Corby, the Channing butler. Such was her conviction that she had placed Corby, a man not averse to a sporting flutter, on the good end of four to one odds. But as time wore on, the feet of Miss Meath had grown cold. And her vague doubts were not dispersed by leering hints made by Corby to the effect that a great upset might be in the making. Corby was conducting a war of nerves.

Mr. Channing was regarding Meath in surprise. "That," he said, "is ridiculous. The race is the only thing that isn't worrying me. Why, Black Moonlight could read 'Gone With the Wind' around the track and still beat that farm horse of Calvin's."

"Very likely. But anything can happen, you know," Gently Meath planted the seed of doubt.

"Preposterous," said Mr. Channing. "Black Moonlight will leave that nag at the post."

"But if he doesn't, Mr. Channing?" Meath said slowly. "In that remote event there would be nothing to do but pay up."

Ever so carefully Meath slipped him the needle. "Mr. Channing," she said, "that is merely your conscious speaking. It is your sub-conscious that really worries you."

"So! What do you know about my sub-conscious?"

"I may know more than you think, sir," said Meath glibly. "One of my hobbies is psychology. And my—my experience tells me that while your conscious does not consider the possibility of defeat and its aftermath, your sub-conscious does. Particularly the aftermath."

"Is that so? Well, what about this hypothetical aftermath?"

"You mentioned a moment ago," went on Meath, "that you led a dog's life. Well, your sub-conscious is trying to remind you that if, through any unforeseen occurrence, your horse should lose, Mr. Calvin Meggs would make your life a hell on earth."

Mr. Channing drummed thoughtfully on the desk. "Meath," he said, "you seem to have thought this thing through very well. I don't see how we can remove the outside chance that Calvin's superannuated billygoat might come through."

IT was the opening for which Meath had been sparring.

COPYRIGHT, 1943, NEA SERVICE, INC.

"May I speak freely, Mr. Channing?" she said.

"Go as far as you like," said Mr. Channing, as one who hands over the keys to the city.

Meath went. She went to town. By the time she had finished her employer was gazing at her in open-mouthed admiration.

"Meath," he said, in an awed voice, "this is superb. Remind me to raise your salary."

"Yes, sir," said Meath modestly.

"Your masterly—ah—campaign," continued Mr. Channing, "would seem to place my wager with Calvin in the category of a sure thing."

"Exactly," said Meath. And added, under her breath: "And my bet with Corby."

"Well then," cried Mr. Channing, a doer not a dreamer, "why don't we start the ball rolling?"

"Why not, indeed, sir?" Meath said.

"No time like the present, eh, Meath?"

"No, sir," said Meath, who was a yes-woman and no-woman combined.

Mr. Channing arose. For a moment he paced his den, chin upon chest. But presently he halted beside Meath's chair and patted her shoulder.

"I've considered the scheme from every angle," he said. "And it's sure. It's sure. It's sure. As the fella says, doesn't it, Meath?"

"In the bag, sir," echoed Meath, discreetly dropping her eyes.

An hour later Miss Meath left Wildover, on foot. She proceeded along the improved road that ran past the estate for about a mile. At that point a dirt road, hardly more than a wagon track, ran off to the right. Meath turned into the dirt road.

A short distance up this bypath was a dilapidated house. Time and the elements had colored it a dingy gray. The front porch sagged in a discouraged manner and the windows were shuttered. Obviously the place was abandoned. But Meath turned into the unkempt grounds without hesitation.

She went around to the rear noting, in passing, an automobile of the genus jalopy parked well out of sight from the dirt road. Then she mounted the tumble-down back stoop and rapped smartly three times on the kitchen door.

Instantly the door opened a crack. A rheumy eye appeared at the crack.

"Hiya, Gofie," said a voice like a file scraping over corrugated iron. "Welcome to me country er-state." The door opened wide.

All Forces Get Together to Praise B. Ross

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—The Army, the Navy, the Marines and the Air Force got together tonight to give Barney Ross a big hand—but Barney won't be there to listen to it.

While the Boxing Writers Association of New York holds its fifth annual dinner to present to Barney the Edward J. Neil Memorial Plaque as the man who did the most for boxing in 1942 (the little corporal of the Marines is still in the Pacific war zone taking care of things).

He was taking care of them a whole lot better than had the night of Nov. 19 when remaining to protect three wounded companions in a foxhole, he kayned 22 Japs for keeps.

For that job, he was promoted to corporal, was cited for a Distinguished Service decoration and later was unanimously chosen by the fight writers to receive the plaque that is generally regarded as boxing's highest honor. It is given each year in memory of the Associated Press writer and war correspondent who was killed during the war in Spain in 1903.

Ross still is recovering from that night. So Marine Colonel Harvey L. Miller, a past president of the National Boxing Association, will accept the award on behalf of the Chicagoan who once was world lightweight, welterweight and junior welterweight champion.

The handsome silver shield will be handed over with the usual appropriate remarks. Former Mayor Jimmy Walker will present the trophy to Barney in Absentia.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Wide World Sports Columnist

New York, Feb. 17 (AP)—Boasting basketball—or courting trouble.

Pvt. W. D. Gary, speaking for the boys at the Myrtle Beach, S. C., Air Base, asks why this dept. overlooks small colleges in basketball, particularly Appalachian state college of Boone, N. C. . . . Appalachian, he argues, could beat any three teams combined in the Southern Conference and run circles around any college outfit, but it doesn't get a tumble, even in North Carolina papers. It ought to get a chance in the garden he says, but "a small school has little, if any, chance in the papers today—why?"

Dept. Of Explanation

Having tried to handle basketball on a national basis, we know how hard it is to cover even the so-called "major" conferences without having a story that runs over into the want ads. . . . It's admitted that a small college may come up with a court team that would while the tar out of the big shots, but until they play some of the big guys, how are you going to prove it?—You can't! depend on the mere fact that they've licked a lot of teams their own size. . . . As for busting into the garden, the question isn't "how good are they" but "will 15,000 New Yorkers pay to see them?"

Second Half

Best of the few teams we've seen this season was the Norfolk Naval Training Station outfit that licked Long Island Monday. . . . Those boys really operate smoothly and shoot well enough to win a Navy "E". . . . Report is that they may be invited back to play Great Lakes March 30, when the C.A.A. final will be held. . . . Dave Walsh, veteran New York official, says that fast modern basketball requires three officials, a stunt that was tried in the Eastern league six years ago. . . . Why not include a bass whistle and make it a quartet?

Today's Guest Star

Zipp Newman, Birmingham News: "The Japs and Huns will have to worry about Clint Castleberry of the Magic Feet, next fall. Clint has been ordered to report for training with the Army Air Force. The Japanese had better prepare a 20-man defense for Georgia Tech's greatest freshman footballer."

Service Dept.

On the same day that J. Howard Berry, former Penn halfback, was commissioned Lieutenant Colonel in the Marines, Frank Reagan, another old Red and Blue, was promoted to captain. . . . Teams from Fort Monmouth, J. Aberdeen, Md., proving grounds, and Philadelphia, Ellis Island, Curtis Bay, Md., Atlantic City and Manhattan Beach Coast Guard outfits have entered the eastern Seaboard Servicemen's Basketball tourney at Camden, N. J., Feb. 20-27. Fort Dix, N. J., also may play. . . . Russ Letlow, Green Bay Packers' guard, was the first man sent through the Milwaukee Inductee under the new Selective Service arrangement. He couldn't get into the Marines because he was too big, but the Army said okay.

Choice Of Words

A year ago City Councilman Harlow Gers of Oklahoma City was playing golf with Wayne Joyce and Ray Winger when his ball hit a dove and killed it. . . . The other day, playing with the same partners on the same hole, he knocked a rabbit dead. . . . The first shot may have given him a birdie, but what was the second? . . . ope, Gers insists it wasn't a lie.

Cleaning The Cuff

A bill legalizing downtown betting is ready to be introduced in the Rhode Island legislature today. . . . Southern Association officials aren't expected to call it quits, at today's meeting, but they will need an extra day to talk over all the angles of the baseball season. . . . Jean Pusie, the old hockey "bad man" is playing in an intermediate amateur league and doing some pro wrestling on the side. . . . Donald Ross announces no one under 34, except service men, can play in the north and south open golf tourney at Pinhurst. . . . Ace or score?

Conduct Study

Rev. Bailes

First Baptist Church is host of a Bible Conference which continues through Friday noon. Outstanding speakers on the program have been Dr. W. E. Denham, Montgomery, Alabama, and Dr. B. V. Ferguson of Ft. Smith, Arkansas. Dr. Porter M. Bailes of Tyler, Texas, begins a series of three addresses Thursday morning.

Dr. Ferguson preaches Wednesday evening on "The Triumphant Christian". In addition to New Testament Expositions by Dr. Denham and a sermon by Dr. Porter M. Bailes Thursday, the Rev. Grover C. Price of Camden will lead a discussion on "The Church, The Preacher And Taxes".

The sessions of the Conference open at 9:30 a. m., 1:45 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend all sessions.

Tabernacle Men of Church Hold Dinner

Men of the Gospel Tabernacle church had an Irish Stew dinner last night and elected the following officers for the year: President, S. A. Westbrook, secretary, Fred Robinson.

The Rev. Joseph Sharp of El Dorado was guest speaker. Music was furnished by a quartet.

Prosecuting attorney Lyle Brown will address the group at the regular meeting next month.

All Favor Sports Program Except the Army, Navy

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—There is a major huddle in the nation's sports program—and blame it all on the Axis.

Without exception Army and Navy men agree that "competitive sports" are desirable, in fact necessary, to train a young man to do a good job in his more important task of fighting the war.

There's the muddle—a small competitive sports include playing on varsity teams under college colors, or merely playing principally for exercise? There's no ruling.

Boiled down, the whole matter of armed service participation in sports stands at the moment like this:

Army—Officials directing the specialized training program—which will put soldiers into most colleges as students—say there won't be any time left for varsity sports after the 60 hours weekly required for scholastic matters. Col. Theodore P. Bank, chief of the athletics and recreation branch has said "competitive games have been a powerful weapon in the Army's training program to date and it would be unreasonable to surmise that they will be thrown out of the window now." He explained his reference was to competitive sports in camps, and not intercollegiate athletics.

Navy—Pre-Flight Cadets moved well into front ranks of collegiate football last year. But they didn't play under college colors; they played as Pre-Flight squads against some mighty godo propisition.

Colleges—with most athletes in, or about to go into, the armed services, coaches would welcome stars in uniform—without them they face the prospect of building teams around the students under the 18-year-Selective Service age or physically unfit for Army and Navy services.

Just one thing apparently is clear—There'll continue to be competitive sports; possibly the big colleges won't have the teams of previous years; the big spectacles may be just that, chances are that service teams will take the limelight—but there'll still be sports of a sort.

Hempstead Red Cross Drive to Start in March

The Red Cross War Fund Campaign will be held during March of this year and Hempstead County's quota has been set at $7900.

George Ware has been selected as Chairman of the campaign and is now perfecting an organization that will cover every inch of the county and give every man, woman and child an opportunity to contribute.

The American Red Cross is represented in every army camp all over the civilized world and Red Cross First Aid is on every battle field from Alaska to Tunisia. These are only a few of the services rendered by this, the greatest of all charitable organizations.

Red Cross workers are sewing, knitting, and making bandages for the allied soldiers and the refugees from over-run European countries, it is distributing food and clothing to the people of China, Greece, the countries of North Africa, and wherever help is needed. It is helping soldiers keep in close contact with their loved ones at home and doing everything possible to maintain the families of the soldiers in the armed forces.

It is training classes in first aid, home nursing, hospital aides, and many other things to build up and maintain moral on the home front.

It keeps soldiers informed about their families and families about the fathers and sons in the army. It gets furloughs for soldiers to come home in case of sickness or death and extending furloughs when necessary.

The Hempstead County Chapter has been declared by representatives of National Headquarters as one of the very best in the State of Arkansas and well worthy of the unstinted support of the citizens of the entire county.

Miami is Happy About Military Occupation, Now That Only Tourists Are Soldiers' Wives

By PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
Miami Fla., Feb. 17.—While military marchers sing and swing along its palm-bordered avenues, Greater Miami is marking time.

Tourist trade is at such an all-time low that local promoters are practicing selling each other low tide residence lots and "business sites" back in the Everglades. Gamblers are playing solitaire, and people who own racing dogs are using them to hunt real rabbits.

Incoming trains and buses discharge scores of women arriving to visit their uniformed husbands, but these wives are not regarded as tourists because the Hotel Association has agreed to a maximum rate for servicemen of $3 single and $5 double. A tourist would pay two or three times as much.

A few charter boats still can be had for deep sea fishing, but the vast fleet of pleasure craft has vanished into drydock or the custody of the Coast Guard. The pleasure-driving ban killed horse-racing at Tropical Park and Hialeah, and other outlying attractions such as monkey jungles and Seminole villages are in a bad way. At ostrich farms, the birds no longer have to stick their heads in the sand when they want to be alone.

The Army and Navy occupation of this region doesn't amount to a boom, by long shots, but it certainly is a boon. Only a year ago, Greater Miami was threatened with say it is remarkably low among servicemen here.

Military authorities control the policing of Miami Beach. In Miami, each patrol car is manned by a civilian cop, an MP and a member of the Navy's Shore Patrol—a combination calculated to take care of just about any situation.

Member of Pioneer Hempstead Dies

Jim Dudley, 98, a native of Hempstead county, died at his home near Commache, Texas yesterday, relatives here were advised. Funeral services will be held at Commache at 2 p. m. today.

He was a member of a pioneer Hempstead family and lived here for many years.

Hope Man Is Made Technical Sergeant

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Greenlee received word today that their son, Thomas Greenlee, has been promoted to the rank of technical sergeant. He is stationed with the U. S. armed forces at Hammer Field, Fresno, Calif.

A fate worse than debt, indications were that it not only would be impoverished for the duration, but probably deserted as it was during the worst of the depression, when palmettos grew in outlying streets and bobcats raised families in neglected formal gardens.

Poorer, But Operating

Gloom gathered like a killing frost while civic leaders tried to figure a way to boost the economy of an area virtually without defense projects. In January, 1942, although the nation wasn't yet awake to the gasoline, rubber and rail-travel emergencies, something like 15,000 rooms stood vacant here while landlords muttered among their mortgages and tax bills.

Then came the Army. At first there was only a lone lieutenant, empowered to make inquiries and to state that the Army Air Force Technical Training Command might start a school on Miami Beach. Hotel owners mistook the signal for the approach of a Washington gravy train and began to talk in such stratospheric terms that the Army said, in effect: "Okay—skip it. We'll try St. Petersburg instead."

That attitude brought panic to the hotel men, who formed a committee and promised cooperation. When negotiations started, landlords soon learned that they weren't going to get rich from their khaki clientele. But at least they'd be able to meet taxes and notes, and at war's end they still would have their buildings, less depreciation.

Low But Sure

A specific example is the 12-story 107-room National Hotel. Tourists rates averaged $15 per room, so that a capacity month would have brought a gross income of at least $48,000. The government is leasing this hotel for $9000 a month.

A few hotel owners bleated and blustered, and one flew to Washington to rally some political pals against the high-handed military. When he got back, soldiers already were occupying his hotel, on a condemnation order.

One of the first properties taken over was the municipal golf course, at $1 a year, for a training field. The city made the offer, but the deal encountered unexpected opposition from a woman who had paid for some golf lessons, and who declared that she'd take them. If she had to stymie the Army in Supreme Court. She got a lesson, all right, but not in golf.

Medical officers inspected various restaurants and ordered quick clean-ups on penalty of having the places ordered out-of-bounds for troops. One of the most expensive and exclusive hotels—rooms $100 a day, and by appointment only—had such a dirty kitchen that officers gave up the notion of getting

Navy Pressing Sub Warfare in Pacific

Washington, Feb. 17 (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Knox said today the Navy is pressing its submarine campaign "very energetically" against Japanese shipping in the Southwest Pacific area.

"We assume that they're doing the most they can to exploit that territory," he told a press conference. "Undoubtedly they are getting oil for one thing."

"I have had unofficial reports that they have renewed oil production in the shallow wells in northern Borneo and we know of course that some installations in the East Indies were not destroyed."

The last Navy report on American submarine sinkings of Japanese ships of all types came out about two weeks ago and showed that up to that time 123 enemy ships were sunk 22 probably sunk and 32 damaged—a total of 177—by submarines.

The secretary was asked how the Navy was getting along with its campaign of attrition against Japanese shipping on which the whole usefulness of the conquered territories rest and he replied that "we're pressing our submarine campaign very energetically."

Discussing another phase of the South Pacific situation, the secretary said that as of this morning there was in the Solofon islands "nothing stirring apparently but a lot of air activity."

He was told that in the last several days details had been coming out of the Southwest Pacific about a series of sea-air actions earlier this month about which the Navy had declined for security reasons to supply here.

"I think we will have a communique today," Knox said. "That will clear that whole thing up and give you the whole story. You will see then that there were good solid military reasons for holding up the details reasons which will be transparent when you see the communique."

The secretary reiterated his view that the conquest of Guadalcanal has given United States Pacific forces an advantageous position from which to direct new blows against the enemy. One enemy base which has been pounded is that at Munda in the central Solofon and Knox was asked what results had been obtained by the 65 attacks thus far made on Munda.

He said he was unable to describe conditions there and said the enemy would be able only to make a limited use of the base.

THE VICTORY IS WON:

It now appears from what my friends tell me that I will receive a majority of all votes cast in tomorrow's election and will be nominated for a second term as Mayor without the necessity of any run-off primary.

I take this opportunity of thanking all my friends for the work they have done and will continue to do until the victory is won. My friends are urged to keep up the good work until the election is over and make my majority as large as possible.

I shall at all times do what I think is right and for the best interests of the entire City, and I pledge you a clean and efficient business administration.

To the Voters of the CITY OF HOPE

Tomorrow you will vote your choice for the Democratic nomination for Mayor. I served you for one term as Mayor and two terms as City Attorney. One of my opponents has served you three terms as Mayor, and my other opponent has served you two terms as Alderman. Thus you have the information upon which you will determine whom you will support. Therefore I have not made a house-to-house canvass.

It shall be my purpose to give the City a progressive, practical administration. Of course our first obligation as a City is the same as that of each individual; that is, to give our whole-hearted support as a unit of Government, and as individuals, to aid our National Government in the crisis that confronts our country.

The prospects for my election are encouraging.

The people are saying, "We want a change, and we are supporting Atkins for Mayor."

Assuring you that your vote and influence will be appreciated and my best efforts will be in behalf of the City of Hope.

I am, respectfully

Developments in Arkansas Legislature

Little Rock, Feb. 17—(AP)—Major overnight legislative developments in the Arkansas House of Representatives today included a revised administration bill to provide for pre-session meetings of the legislative joint budget committee to replace one now held up by amendment.

Senate delayed temporarily a show-down fight on a number of appropriation bills to allow Sen. Wesley Samper Rogers to study the measures. Samper returned unexpectedly to the session and the committee's appropriation was reduced from $15800 to $7825 annually.

Committees House cities and towns — postponed until next Monday hearing on bill to permit municipalities to purchase electric light plants within their limits. The bill's author Rep. Alene Word of Mississippi County charged that some person or persons whom she did not identify had attempted to prevent printing and distribution of the bill.

House State Lands — approved Senate bill to prevent the state from withholding on resale mineral rights on lands forfeited for non-payment of taxes.

Senate levees and drainage — cancelled scheduled meeting for lack of quorum.

Little Rock, Feb. 17—(AP)—Major overnight legislative developments in the Arkansas House of Representatives today included a chain store tax bill to impose a graduated levy of from $10 to $550 per store annually, depending on the number of stores.

Rep. C. L. Haskew, Logan, introduced a bill to revise the severance tax levy against bauxite.

Senate Economy faction passed an additional $29,500 off appropriation bills.

Committees Joint Budget — Recommended $350,000 annual appropriation for University of Arkansas Medical School and hospital; completed its work on appropriation bills.

How To Fill Out Consumer Form in The Hope Star Today

By Peter Edison, Washington Correspondent
Washington, Feb. 17—Office of Price Administration today released to the Hope Star a copy of the form for "Consumer" Declaration for Processed Foods and Coffee, which must be filled out for every person to whom is issued War Ration Book No. 2, covering canned goods and other processed foods to be rationed March 1. Copy of this form is shown in the adjoining columns.

This is the first time the government has presented a rationing form for first distribution through newspapers. Decision to permit the newspaper to issue this form as a public service to their readers was made in recognition of the fact that newspapers reach practically every individual in the United States and can therefore put over this rationing campaign as successfully as they handled the nation's scrap drive last fall.

By presenting the Consumer Declaration form through this newspaper, the Hope Star makes it possible for the housewife or any individual making application for War Ration Book No. 2 to fill in the form at home during leisure moments. And by taking the completed form to the registration centers, during the week of Feb. 22-27, much time will be saved. Standing in line will be reduced to a minimum.

The form announced by OPA headquarters and the local rationing boards today is comparatively simple and is largely self-explanatory, as shown in the proof presentation herewith. Only four blank spaces have to be filled in, plus a list of names of persons for whom applications for Ration Book No. 2 are being made.

The steps which everyone filling in the form should take are as follows:—Cut out this copy of the Consumer Declaration from today's newspaper. B—On Feb. 21, go to your pantry and count all cans, jars and bottles containing 8 ounces or more of the following foods which you have bought in a store:

Canned fruits (including spiced fruits).
Canned vegetables.
Canned fruit and vegetable juices.
Canned soups, chili sauce and catsup.

The net weight contents of every can or jar is printed on the label. Don't count containers holding less than 8 ounces.

Don't count canned or glassed foods you put up yourself.

Don't count canned olives, canned meat or fish, pickles, relish, jellies, jams, preserves, spaghetti, macaroni or noodles.

Don't count dried or frozen foods.

C—You are now ready to fill out the form.

First, under the heading "Coffee," in the blank space at the right of number 1, write in the number of pounds of coffee you had on hand Nov. 28, less 1 pound for every member of the family, 14 years of age or older. You were told to make a note of coffee on hand Nov. 28 when coffee rationing began. If there are five members of your family—Pop, Mom, Grandpa, a boy of 18 and a girl of 12—you would be entitled to have four pounds of coffee on hand. If you had only one pound or less for each person over 14, you would print a big "O" in the blank space, or write "None." If you had six pounds of coffee on hand and there were four members of your family over 14, you would enter in the blank space the figure "2."

If you have lost your Nov. 28 inventory of coffee on your shelves, or if you can't remember it, they'll probably ask you to guess.

Second, enter in the blank space at the right of question 2, the number of persons for whom you are making application for Book No. 2. In the family example given, the number would be "5."

Finally, print the names of the members of your family, and opposite each name put the serial number appearing on the War Ration Book No. 1 issued for that person.

Sign your name and put in the address, and then you're all set to go to register for your Book No. 2. Be sure to take this consumer declaration form with you, and also the War Ration Book No. 1 for every person for whom you're applying for a Book No. 2. If you don't take the Book No. 1 with you, you won't be given a Book No. 2.

As a warning, note that the penalty for making a false statement on this form is 10 years' imprisonment, or $10,000 fine or both.

there are five members of the typical family as listed above. They're entitled to have on hand five cans per person, or a total of 25. So, in the blank space at the right of question 3, the correct figure

Kiwanis Club Seeks Plots for Gardens

The local Kiwanis Club has undertaken a project of securing garden plots for the people of Hope who want to raise a Victory garden this summer.

The club wants anyone who has a vacant plot to register this lot with any member for use as a Victory garden. These plots will in turn be allocated to applicants for garden space.

It is hoped that at least fifty gardens will be sponsored by the club for the coming summer.

EXTRA! EXTRA! EXTRA!

Two big Hope lawyers look worried! Something has gone wrong. They used to call the people up to see them. Now they're coming down to see the people.

I'm being asked daily which one of them will be left in the race after tomorrow.

My answer:
Neither one, I hope.

That Extra Something!
... You can spot it every time

Andre Kostelanetz, in "The Pause That Refreshes On The Air", broadcast every Sunday afternoon for Coca-Cola, brings you music with distinction. His listening audience is counted in millions. It's the extra touch Andre Kostelanetz gives to music that gives this program a character all its own. Coca-Cola, too, won distinction by giving folks something extra in refreshment.

Raise a frosty bottle of Coca-Cola to your lips. Where else than in Coca-Cola itself will you find this unique taste? It more than quenches thirst. It adds refreshment... refreshment that goes into energy.

Fifty-seven years of experience and skill, with choicest ingredients—create a quality in Coca-Cola that never loses the freshness of its appeal.

War-time limits the supply of Coca-Cola. Those times when you cannot get it, remember: Coke, being first choice, sells out first. Ask for it each time.

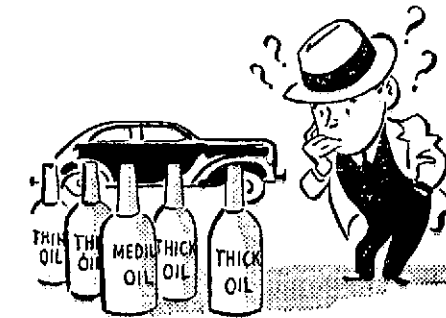

Intermission for musicians means a trek to the Coca-Cola cooler. These artists look to the pause that refreshes for quick energy, complete relaxation. Ask your musician friend what drink he prefers!

The best is always the better buy!
